  - III. Dr. Anjan Sinha, Secretary, ARSW Society and Assistant Professor, Raghunathpur College, Purulia
9. Details of Resource Persons:
  - I. Dr. Sanjeev Pandey, Associate Professor, B.B College, Asansole
  - II. Dr. Animesh Mondal, Assistant Professor, B.B. College, Asansole

Objective:

- I. The main objective of this project work is to characterize the traditional rice varieties of Bankura district, West Bengal by following DUS (Distinctiveness, Uniformity and Stability) guidelines.
- II. To obtain knowledge of these varieties which are going to be lost due to the popularization of present high yielding varieties.
- III. Beside traditional varieties have enormous importance in the field of nutrition and medicine, and the varieties should be conserved in the earth for the benefit of mankind.
- IV. For preservation of these varieties and germ plasm conservation, characterization is very important which will be helpful in breeding field also.

Outcome:

In this project work agro-morphological study was performed on five varieties present in the field of ARSW society. Among the investigated 46 characters 38 are qualitative and 8 are quantitative. Qualitative character are important in respect to the identification and the characterization of land races of rice varieties because these characters are less influenced by the various environmental conditions. In case of quantitative characters at first measurements are taken and compare it to the guideline, for which category it belongs to.

This study may be helpful in the field of plant breeding and germplasm conservation. For the preservation and maintenance of these varieties the morphological characteristics may play a vital role.

The collaboration between the Centre for Folklore Studies and Research (CFSR) and Sonamukhi College, as outlined in the Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) signed on April 16, 2024, represents a commendable initiative aimed at advancing folklore studies and research. Folklore, being an integral aspect of cultural heritage, deserves attention and preservation to ensure its continuity across generations. This collaborative effort underscores the recognition of the importance of folklore in maintaining cultural identity and heritage of Bankura district.

Centre for Folklore Studies and Sonamukhi College, Bankura, have recently signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) to collaborate on various activities pertaining to the folklore of the Sonamukhi region. Together, we have documented the Sonamukhi Mela, with active participation from students of the college.
